TAPAN AND RUSSIA. THE FRENCH POINT OF VIEW. If we accept it as an axiom that we are unable to see ourselves as others see us, we may still regard others from the standpoint of a third party. 'In "the guard ports of the morn" it looks somewhat as if the Bear was preparing to make a meal of the Chrysanthemum, but if he attempts to assimilate this unaccustomed fare he will find it most remarkably hard of digestion, Blagovestchenk and Kishineff were well enough as there was nobody there to hit back, but in the Land of the Rising Sun are men who know the game, who have played the game, and are most decidedly prepared to play it again, and this time for all that it is worth. But evidently Russia's European ally is extremely nervous about the situation, and the Moniteur"de la Flotte has set itself to prove that all is for the best in the hest of all possible Far East. "If we were to believe certain reports which have recently appeared in the newspipers," says the ingenuous Moniteur, would appear as if Japan were actually contemplating a war with Russia in the near future, and was preparing for it. But these rumours are most decidedly contradicted by the cordial reception recently accorded by the Mikado to General' Kuropatkine, the Russian Minister of War. But the prophets of war are not the least embarrasted by such the Halsuse, of 15,000 tons; of the Shikishima, a little thing as this; they maintain that the friendly attitude of the Japanese Sovereign covered dark and sinister designs on the part of the nation he represents." It is well to have an open mind, and it is distinctly charitable to believe no evil of one's neighbour; and one checks the rising sob as one reads that " we do not believe a word of it, but, on the contrary are of opinion that everything points to a pacific attitude on the part of Japan." - Having thus given the potential enemy of Russia credit for the noblest sentiments the writer now adopts quite a different attitude, and apparently wishes to prove that she could not fight if she wanted to do so. "We must agree," he goes on, "that the augmentation of the Japanese Fleet has only been carried out by Parliament with the very greatest difficulty, and if we inquire into the financial situation of Japan, and if we admit, as we are bound to do, that money is the sinews of war in the Far East as elsewhere, let us see if the Japanese exchequer is equal to the strain which it will be called upon to bear. To say that the development of Japan is one of the wonders of the world is merely to repeat a platitude." So far we can cordially agree with Moniteur, as Japanese exports which barely touched five millions one hundred thousand pounds sterling in 1872 rose to the immense sum of nearly fifty-one millions in 1922, and in the same period the imnorts rose from two millions to twenty-five millions. One may search the annals of commerce in vain for a parallel case. This immense advance in commerce had as its corollary a similar increase in railways and in her mercantile. marine; in 1872 there were but thirty kilometres of railroad, in 1907 there were 5,900. In the year 1891 Japan possessed 586 steamers, of an aggregate tonnage of 144,962 tons. In 1895 she possessed 722 sailing vessels and 745 steamers, of a gross tonnage of 212,925 tons. In 1899 she had 1,914 sailing vessels and 1,130 steamers, of a gross tonnage of 648,324 tons. Thus it will be seen that in eight years the tota of her mercantile marine had increased by 345 per cent., the tonnage of steamers by 409 per cent. At the same time her internal industries have progressed in a not less astonishing manner, particularly in the direction of factories for the manufacture of articles which hitherto had exclusively been imported from abroad. All this our Moniteur freely admits, but when it comes to expenditure he proceeds to prove that Japan can by no possibility afford to go to war. "This extraordinary progress," he goes on to say, "is due very largely to the protection and succour of the State. The result is that the finances of Japan are in anything but a flourishing condition, inasmuch as military and naval expenditure has risen considerably : during the period 1893-1900 military expenditure has reached a total of sixty mil-Jions of pounds sterling; the budget of the army has trip'ed, that of the navy has quadrupled. In consequence of this taxation has risen by 175 per cent. On the day of the declaration of war Japan could not raise more than twentyfour millions sterling for the purpose of sustaining her forces upon a war footing, et cela en faisant flêche de tout bois. Even to do this she must use five millions already allocated to her Naval Reserve, and must draw out all disposable funds from banks and savings banks. These millions once disposed of she must fall back upon her ally, England, who would not fail to demand a heavy mortgage." So much for the financial side of the question; but it does not seem to occur to the Moniteur that even bankrupt States have put up a very fine fight ere this, neither does, it remember that want of money never stopped any one from going to war who wished to do so, 118ving Taised a terrible monetary bogey, duly equipped it with a white sheet and lighted the lantern inside its turnip head, the Montleur, once more returns to the charge, this time with a full-fledged military spectre. "The Mikado must not forget," it continues, "that Russia has achieved the completion of its Trans-Siberian Railway. Or rather," in a burst of candour, "very nearly. Also that this railway can be used for military purposes," Surely a somewhat unnecessary piece of information !- " He (the Mikado) must not forget that the garrisons of Port Arthur and Manchuria are already very numerous, and can be easily reinforced." Pace the Moniteur. one expects that the Mikado knows just a little more on this subject than his would-be-instructor. But now comes the greatest coup of all, and the Moniteur evidently means to make the Mikado's flesh creep fais time. Lethim not forget that the Russian fleet in the Far

East actually pumbers fifty-three armed vessels, shortly, to be reinforced by eleven torpedo-boat destroyers, which are on the eve of quitting Cronstadt. In a very short time Russia will have in the lime

meditte neighbourhood of Japan nine battleships, eleven first-class cruisers, eight secondclass cruisers, three gunhants, twenty-eight destroyers, and twenty two torpedo boats " It is difficult to discover whether the last paragraph of this remarkable article is "writ sarkattic" or not, as it runs thus: "These are peremptory arguments in favour of an essentially peaceful policy which Japan would do well to carefully consider. Nevertheless, we do not believe in those warlike rumours to which alarmists are lending themselves." A more remarkable article than this if would be hard to imagine, alternately warning and bullying the Japanese.

The Russians have fifty-three vessels of war in "I'extreme Orient," their good friends and allies, the French, have twenty-four; as it is possible that the Moniteur foreshadows that perhaps the Russian may wish his ally to come to his aid to smash this upstart among the nations who actually has a will and a policy which does not square with that of the bureaucracy of St. Petersburg? Very inconvenient will Japan prove should it end in war and this' the Moniteur knows right well; hence the assumption of disbelief, the veiled threats and general sense of uneasiness which prevades the tone of the paper. They might, had they had been so minded, have compiled a list of Japanese warships for the study of their allies, and spoken of the Mikasa and Asahi, of 15,200 tons; of of 14,850 tons, of the Fuji and Yashima of 12,500 tons, of those fine cruisers the Asama and Tokiwa of 9,750 tons, and of many another staunch Japanese vessel, the products mostly of our great English shipyards. But they set out to frighten the Japanese; this, in the opinion of any one who knows them well, is not an easy task. The Montteur had really better try this game on somebody else; it is not likely to succeed in the Land of the Rising Sun .- P.M.G.

HONGKONG OPIUM FARM.

We gave yesterday the particulars relating to the tenders for the new Hongkong Opium Farm, which we were then able to gather from an unofficial source and from the letter, which we print below, it will be seen that our preport of last evening is now officially confirmed. The communication, by the way, we reproduce by kind permission of the successful tenderers, Messrs. Tan Joo Chin and Seah Eng Kiat, of 36, Bonham Strand West. The letter is as follows:--

> "Colonial Secretary's Office, 4th September, 1903.

" Gentlemen,

. "With reference to your tender, dated the 31st ultimo, offering the sum of $185,000 per mensem as rent for the privileges known as the Opium Farm for three years from, the 1st March, 1904, inclusive, I am directed to inform you that His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to accept your tender.

"2. I-am to invite your attention to the 4th paragraph of the 'Conditions Tendering' which requires you to deposit with the Colonial Treasurer, before the 1st January next, approved security, either money or title deeds, to the value of three months' rent of the Farm for the due performance of the conditions on which the privilege is granted and of the stipulations or agreement in respect thereof.

"3. I am further to request you to be good enough to attend at the Crown Solicitor's office with a view to the necessary deed of grant being executed.

" I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,. Your obedient servant,

F. H. MAY,

Colonial Secretary. "Messrs. Tan Joo Chin and Seah Eng

Kiat, of 36, Bonham Strand West." It appeared that technical objections had Eng Kiat through their failure to accompany the touder with the deposit receipt Learning that the gentleman second in the list of tenderers, given in our columns yesterday, was to contest the legality of the grant to the present farmers, they instructed Messrs. Deacon and Hastings to Executive Council held yesterday in the event of Counsel for the other party being allowed to appear. We are informed that the Hon. H. E. Pollock, K.C., was retained in behalf of Mr. Ho Kom Tong, and that an application was made to the Colonial Secretary that the tenderer be heard through Counsel who might be allowed to argue the case before the Executive Council. We were further informed that reference by Government to the hon; the Attorney General elicited the advice from the law officer of the Crown that, the deliberations of this Council being strictly private, Counsel could not appear. For that reason it has not been possible for us to ascertain upon what grounds Messrs. Tan and Seah's claim was upheld. They were at one time (1898-99) connected with the Straits Settlements Farm, and on their failure to work in agreement with their old partners on the new lease of the Straits farm they proceeded to Hongkong and succeeded in obtaining the privilege they now hold.

THE INTERNATIONAL YACHT.

As announced in a special extra to the Hongkong Telegraph, at nine o'clock this morning, the American yacht, Reliance, has successfully defended the Royal Yacht Squadron's International Queen's Cup, value £100, which was first won by the America, an American yacht, of 171 tons, at Cowes. Regatta, August 22, 1851, in a match round the Isle of Wight, and afterwards presented to the New York Yacht Club as a trophy for an international race. The eyes of yachtlovers the world over has been turned toward the spot on the American Atlantic seaboard where Shamrock III, emblematic of Sir Thomas Lipton's Irish sporting pluck, has struggled for the blue ribbon of the

and on a calm sea, detailed narratives of the Fresh Kodak him plenty of them, at LeMune habits and manners of those who were to you's, 31, Des Voux Road. - Adul. man them during the cup contests all have been poured forth upon an eagerly listening public from the sanctums of a hundred publications. It will, however, be interesting to note that Shamrack III embodies more novelties of type and designthan any boat yet built in Great Britain for America cup matches, the most characteristic, and, in some respects, the most during departure being in the fact that the length of the fin was shortened to an extraordinary extent, thus providing decreased friction and quicker turning. Nickel steel was chosen as the metal for the plating instead of manganese bronze, and this was manufactured with a view to securing the minimum of weight with the maximum of tensile strength and trustworthiness. Her general dimensions, being practically dictated to by the conditions of the contest, are in a great degree similar to those of her immediate predecessors; but in the moulding of the boat within those limits Mr. William Fife, the designer of Shamrock I, displayed a considerable amount of originality, reverting to the old cutter type, widely differing from the new de fender, built on the "skimming dish" pattern. The Reliance is a decided departure on the part of Herreshoff from his other cup defenders, and is an excellent example of the American ripe flat floored, fin keeled boats. Her lines are very easy, with few hard places, and a graceful, sweeping curve from the bilges into the garboards. Her stern is very flat, so that she leaves but little wake, while her bow, although not quit iso broad and flat as that of the Independence, is still very much different from the bow of either the Constitution or the Columbia. At the time of launching it was believed that her. strongest points of sailing would be with started sheets in a comparatively smooth sea while her weakest point would be on the wind and flattened sheets, a point on which the Shamrock III. was said to be very fast. The conditions upon which the recent contest was to be decided were :- The best three out of five races, the course to start from Sandy. Hook Lightship. The first race to be to windward or leeward and return, the second race an equilateral triangle, the third and lifth races similar to the first, and the fourth race. similar to the second. The course was to be as nearly as possible 30 nautical miles in length. If in any race neither yacht went over the course within five and a half hours, exclusive of time allowance, such race was not to count, and had to be resailed. been mooted against the monopoly being The first race was to be sailed on Thursday, granted to Messrs. Ta 1 Joo Chin and Seah August 20; the second on Saturday, August 27, and the third on Tuesday, August 25, Further races (if any) were to be sailed on of the amount placed with the Colonial each, following Thursday, Saturday, and Treasurer as a hona fides of the offer. Tuesday until finished. We have seen that the first race was abandoned with the Reliance leading, and that when it was resailed the defender won by seven minutes. In the second race, the Shamrock was 2 minutes and 36 seconds late in startwatch their interests at the meeting of the ing, of which 36 seconds were disallowed according to rule, and although, in running home she gained considerably, the Reliance secured the event by 79 seconds. With regard to the third race, which was declared off on the 27th ult., Reuter reported that "the result of the skilful jokeying of the Reliance was that neither boat crossed the starting line till after the handicap gun had fired, the Shainrock thus losing 107 out of 157 seconds handicap. This is the worst tactical defeat ever sustained at the start in any 'America' Cup race." Owing want of wind the event could not be resailed until yesterday when, according to our London correspondent, whose wire is supplemented by information kindly placed at our disposal by the local representative of the Sperry Flour Company, the defender won the race by between eight and ten minutes thus leaving in Amercia the cup, which the genial Hibernian knight, who has proved himself first a man, then a sport, and last, but by no means least, a true son

INTERESTING PARTICULARS.

The following particulars, of the remarkable career of the vessels, which during the last half century have competed in the International cup race will be of interest to many of our readers :-

In 1851 while an international exposition was in progress in London, it occurred to George Steers, the best of American yacht designers then, and to Mr. Geo, L. Schuyler and others that it would be interesting to exhibit one of the American fore-and-aft vessels, Accordingly M Schuyler and his friends, sailed for Havre, and afterward for Cowes, in their schooner yacht America. A cup has been offered by the Royal Y-cht squadron for competition by all nations, but the American yachtsmen knew nothing about it; and when they arrived at Cowes they posted a challenge to meet any British yacht. The schooner Titania took up the gauntlet, and made a match of twenty miles to windward and return for one bundred pounds; otherwise no attention was paid to the challengers who cup. In the meantime the owners of the America, on July 8th, 1857, presented their prize to the New York Yacht Club, to be held as a perpetual interna ional challenge trophy. THE FILST CHALLENGE.

Eleven years passed before a member of the Royal Thames Yacht club, announced that he would make the attempt to take back the cup with his schooner Cambria. The arrangements were not completed till 1870. When the race was sailed with eighteen starters over the New York Yacht club course. Fifteen

Mr. Ashbury went back to England, and had built for him a new yacht, the Livonia. This was the first yacht especially built to compete for the cup All kinds of discussions preceded Mr Ashbury's second appearance in America-One result was the decision that thereafter the challenger should race against a single American yacht. The New York Yacht club selected the schooners Columbia, Dauntless, Sapph and Palmer to meet the Livenia, reserving the right to name one of these four on the morning of each race. The Livenia sailed five races

Magic being the winner.

AROUSED FOREIGN INTEREST.

These races aroused some foreign interest. and in 1876, the Canadian schooner Countess of Duff.rin, arrived as a challenger, The schooner Madeleine, was selected to meet and won the event. In 1881, the centreboard sloop Atalanta, designed by Captain Cuthbert went from Ontario to get the cup, but the from sluop . Mischief won the cup. The Atalanta's voyage hitherto led to the insertion of a clause in the deed of gift, specifying that vesselsselected to compete for this cup must proceed under sail on their own bottoms to the port where the contest is to take place."

In 1885 came the challenge which lifted the America's cap to the level that its donors had sought for it-that of an international challenge cup; and so far as America was concerned. made the contests for it representative of the highest skill an yacht building and suiling. The Royal Yacht Squadron and the Royal Northern Yacht club.simultaneously offered as challengers the eighty-five-foot cutters Genesta and Galatea and it was agreed that the Genesta should compete for the cup in 1885, and it she failed to win it, the Galates should try in 1886. The publications of the dimensions of the Genesta aroused anxiety among the American yachtsmen; and it was at once seen that a new boat would have to be built to defend the cup. The New York Yacht Club sent an invitation to every yachting organization in the country. to enter competitors in the trial races to decide on the defender and the Puritan was finally chos n as the boat to meet the English cutter.

She won the first race and the second meeting was the finest race ever sailed for the cup except, the contest between Vigilant and

The following year the Galatea made ready to fight for the cup and the May flower, which was selected to meet her, won both races. A syndicate of en husiastic Scotchmon, ful of the racing spirit of the Clyde, now engaged the eminent designer, Geo. L. Watson, to lay down the lines of a yacht that would beat the Yankee inventions. The yacht was the Thistle, now known as the Meleor, and owned b Emperor William of Germany. The This! was the first British Jacht designed for the America's Cup competition, and she was good boat, but was beaten by the Volunteer.

For five years the cup was permitted to repose unsought. Then came a challenge from the Earl of Duncaven, with the Valkyris II which was winning a majority of her races against tithe lover polet and a great crowd went outsailed her rival on every leg of the course and won the face by 10 minutes 35 seconds. In a rattling casterly breeze and a choppy sea, the Vigilant inished her lask by beating the Valkyrie in the linest yacht race ever sailed in American waters by the narrow margin of forty seconds. In 1864 the Vigilant went to England and competed in about twenty races, in most of which she was defeated by the Prince of Wales cutter Britannia. The Vallyris had been sunk in a collision with the Safanila at the beginning of the season and a new Kalkyrie was built, and the Defender turned out to meet her. The first race between Valkyrie III.

Lord Duntaven's new boat, and the Defender,

ook place off Sandy Hook when the Defender, on by 8 mins. 40 secs. In the second, race Vulkyeie's gaff struck and carried away the starboard top mast shrouds of the Defender. the l'alkyrie finished 2 mins, 18 secs. ahead. A controversy arose as to the foul and the trace was a judged to the Defender. Lord Dunraven, immediately after the race, sent a were informed they could enter the big regatta | letter to the An erica Cup committee, declining for a cup on August 22. They fi ally decided to lo sail his boat any, more under the circumsdo this. Besides the America eight schooners tances which prevailed during the first two and nine cutters started to race around the isle traces, on the ground that it was exceedingly of Wight. The America carried away her dangerous to attempt to start two such large. jibboom but she sounded the Needle, when vessels in so confined a space among moving the Aurora, the second yacht, was eight miles seamers and tiny boats, and that he crowd astern, and the rest of the fleet not in sight, of these vessels made it impossible to see The America finished 20 minutes ahead of the the markboats, and hampered the competi-Aurora. And that is the history of the winning lors all along the course. In response to this of the America's cup-a mere yachting incid- appeal, the committee decided that no start ent, without international or scientific signific should be made in the next race until the cance. Seventeen years elapsed before any excursion bouts were half a mile distant from Englishman thought of trying to win back the the yachts. This concession did not satisfy Lord Dunrayen, who asked for a postponement of the race in order that arrangements could be. made for the boats to race in clear water. This request the committee were unable to grant, In the third race Lord Dunraven brought the lakyrie down to the mark, but after crossing the line to give the Dejender a start he withdrew from the contest. On Sept. 34th, 1895, Mr. C. D. Rose, a member of the Royal Victoria Vacht club, appeared as alchallenger for the America Cup. He proposed to build a y cht to be ca led the Distant Shure, but after a goo! deal of correspondence the yachts finished, and the Cambria was tenth, the challenge was withdrawn, and it was let for the en erprise and public spirit of Sir Fhomas Lipton, acting in unison with the Royal Ulster Yacht; club, to make a fresh at uggle; for the prize with the specially built Shumrock.

It will be recollected that in 1901, when Sir Thomas Lipton challenged for the Cup with Sh inrock II., there were five races. The first was on September 26, when, owing to the light wind, the race could not be completed within the time limit, and was abandoned. The second race, on September 28, when the American yacht Columbia won by 1 min 2 sec. The third race, on October i, was unfin shed. n October 4 Crlumbla won the fourth race by 3 min 35 sec; and on October 4 won the fifth race by 41 sec. The Cup, therefore, was retained in the United States. This year as we have seen Shantrock 111, the cup defender Reliance her has carried off the three races.

S.S. "NINGPO" ON THE ROCKS.

The British steamer Ningpo, while on a trip from Hongkong to Cebu, struck a large rock projecting from the Island of Hermana Menor on Friday night, says the Cablenews of the ist. inst. The Ningpo is commanded by Cap ain Parker, and the crew, numbering eight, whoreached here yesterday declare that little hope is entertained for saving the steamer.

A treacherous current of great force is always encountered near the shores of Hermana Menor, and it is believed that the pilot miscalculated his ground and neglected to avoid passing through the turbulent channel.

The ruined vessel was consigned to Ves.rs. Smith, Bell & Co., and lille of value was left on board because of the improbability of successfully floating her.

Vienna, August 23rd. The negotiations now going on between Mr. Kurino, Japanese Minister to St. Petersburg. and the Russian Government, with a view to an amicable settlement of the Manchurian difficulty, cover twelve points in particular. Of these the most important are (1) recognition of Japanese supremacy in Corea; (2) the opening of Manchuria to foreign trade; (3) recognition of the Yalu as the bound ry between the Russian and Japanese spheres of interest The Russian Government ho'd that the suggested basis for a compromise is too disadvant ageous to their interests, and they are believed to hesitate to comply with the Japanese proposal. ALLEGED ATTEMPTED MURDER

STRANGE AFFAIR AT THE PEAK!

Curt Vincenz, a planter, who arrived here with his servant on Tuesday morning from Penang, per the Imperial German mail steamer Zielen, and who resid d at the Hongkong Hotel for a d y or so, was charged at the Magistracy this morning with feloniously and wilfully, and of his malice aforethought, did, shoot and wound. Ng Kam, a public. chair coolie, at the Peak yesterday afternoon. It is alleged that Vincenz hired a chair and proceeded to the flagstaff, and when nearing " Mountain Lodge," on his return journey took out a revolver and fired two shots at the coolie carrying the front of his chair. One shot pierced the man's arm, and the other penetrated his ribs. The coolie instantly fell, throwing Vincenz out of the char. The other coolic bolted, and probably reported the matter at the station, for ere long a European conand the injured coolie conveyed to the Hospital. When asked why he shot the man the defendant replied, "I do, not I now." For two hours after the affiir, no chair crolies, nor chairs, could be seen or obtained in that vicinity. Inspector Robertson managed to get the until Friday, 11th inst., in order that, the injured coolie's evidence may be heard.

> AUEAIRS IN KIVANGSI. TEMPORARY VICEROY WANTED

(From Our Correspondent.) CANTON, 3rd September. With his usual thoroughness H.E. Viceroy Tsen is pursting a very stringedt and severe course with the rebals, and dispatches received in this city are the reverse to those we have been in the habit of seeing. Until some two or three weeks ago, it was not unusual to have authentic news of the rebula's uccesses in their engagements with the Imperial troops, but now it is quite the opposite, and reports to hand state that H.F. Tsen has had numerous successes and is thoroughly punishing all those captured who cannot clear their characters. People who have arrived here from the than was expected in order to confer with disturbed districts give the Viceroy an excellent name, stating he is very just and that there is no escaping the extreme penalty when captives are found to have been complicated in the rebellion, and especially any troops that deserted under the late Governor of Kwangsi. It is known in the city that H.E. has his hands quite full, and this morning I learn on excellent authority that he has suggested to the Throne that while he is in Kwangsi a Viceroy should be appointed temporarily for Kwangtung. At present the Treasurer is Acting Viceroy here under orders from H.E. Tsen. From the above it can be gathered that H.E. hunself sees a prolonged resistance in the distu bed disricts which will keep him for a long period away from Kwangtung. Troops still continue to depart from here for the West River, passing through Wuchow in the direction of Nanning. The populace of the towns, where any stoppage is made, admire and praise the way the soldiers are kept in hand, and are more than surprised that everything had by the troops is paid for perhaps not at its full value; but then to be paid for at all is a surprise to hose who ha t ar ý experience with the sold ers when Governor Wang of Kwangsi was in command. It is stated that H.E. Tsen has given instructions that everything had by his troops is to be paid for at market value, and it is I nown that he holds the captain in chargeof each batch of troops responsible and metes

CHINESE AND MEXICO.

A despatch from E. L. Paso, in Texas, dated 7th ult., says :- A report from reliable sources has reached here that Secretary of State Roman Corrol of the Mexican republic has just issued an order that Chinese be, excluded from Mexico. The o'der is directed especially to the western coast along the Gulf, where Chinese have been arrivi g by the shipload and scattering throughout the republic, many finally making their way to the United States by smuggling themselves across the border.

The order becomes effective at once and it is stated that several cargoes of Chinese, now on the seas and destined for Guaymas, state of Sonora, will not be permitted to land.

The next Mexican Congress, which meets on September 16, will, it is said, pass a general law for the exclusion of all Chinese immigrants.

THE Hon. Sec. of the Shanghai Cricket Club has intimated that the Hongkong Cricket Team well leave the colony for that port on the 23rd of September. The N. C. D. News, of 31st ult., says: Considerable interest is already being shown in cricketing circles as to the probable composition of the team-which will represent Shanghai in the coming interport matches. Shanghai should be able to put a splendid XI into the field if all the crack players are fit and vell when the time comes. The selection committee ought not to have a very difficult task in choosing the first nine members of the team, but there will be keen competition for the last two places.

WILD TRIBES OF THE PHILIPPINE ARCHIPELAGO.

Few people properly conceive the true char acter of the "Filipino" race; and few people realize the fact that, inhabiting the Philippine Islands is a conglomerate mass of humanitycivilized, semi-civilized, savage and cannibalconstituting eighty or more distinct tribes, each with its own peculiarities and speaking a distinct dialect. These, however, are the inhabitants of the 1,800 or more islands, large and mall, forming the vast archipelago, and perhaps, it is safe to say that the sea coast and few neighbouring provinces denote the greater line of civil zation, while the interior, which, in the past was left to the pagan tribes, is practically the same to-day, although somewhat more explored.

Manila, the home of the "Tagalos" and the centre of civilization; owing to the fact that intercourse has been maintained between Europeans and the natives for centuries, is stable came up, and had Vincenz arrested, also the cosmopolitan city. And greatly for that reason, one who has only been in Manila and visited its neighbouring provinces cannot rightfully say that he has seen the typical "Filipinos;" for he would be as greatly mistaken, as one would be, if he claimed having seen China and its people after visiting Hongcoolies to work again. The case was adjourned kong. To see the typical "Filipinos," one must travel beyond the reach of ocean craft; leave all signs of railroads behind, and go to the nituatain villages of the "Negritos" (little blacks), the aboriginals of the Philippines, now dimost extinct although they are still met in the Zunb les mountains, and in some parts of the Bagayan valley. Apparently, they do not number over thirty thousand souls, and as the result of continuous wars made upon them by other tribes the race is fast becoming extinct. Of all the native tribes found in the islands, they are the smallest, with short curly hair and jet black complexion, the peculiarity from which they derive their name. They are peacefully inclined, submissive and readily submit to any new government. Their customs are most antiquated, and they live entirely by hunting, using spears, bows and arrows while they also do a great deal of trapping. Although it is claimed that they are the aboriginals of the islands, they are practically without a history, and many of them do not even know arything about their forefathers; their ancestry appearing wholly obliterated. A large number do not know any name, unless it be the tribal distinction given them by the chief of the tribe to which they belong. They have no knowledge of literature, and are without signs or symbols, which it is claimed existed among the islanders prior to the arrival of the Spaniards: Regarding their customs, habits and manners, they are found to-day practically as they were centuries ago, and as they will surely pa s into another generation.

THE IGORROTES OF NORTHERN LUZON are probably the next best known of the pagan tribes, and although they still wear the Gastring (breech loth) as their only clothing they approach closer to civilization than any other of the uncivilized tribes, many of which may rightfully be called wholly civilized. The latter, inhabiting the provinces of B nguet, Bontoc and Sepanto build towns or settlements (called rancheras) and cultivate the land extensively, but when it comes to labour, they do not differ from other classes of "Filipinos," believing that lahour was made solely for women. Hence the men will sit down alongside of a field and with bow and arrow, or spear in hand, guard the women while they till the soil. Many of the Igorrotes have been christianized by Spanish priests; and to-day are firm believers in Roman Catholicism. The greater majority, however, are neither Christians nor lohammedans, and have a fanatical religion, which they support through ancestral beliefs; they worship a tree, known as a Cod-tree, and also deem a pig as most sacred. On certain days of the month, which they figure out by the n oon, all the men of a ranchera assemble under the God-tree, and amid great yelling do their worshipping. The women not being allowed to partake in the devotions are not permitted under the tree. Should anyone break a limb from the tree, it as they then he ieve that their religion has is restoration, it will be who by destroyed.

vines, gathered from the forests, while the roofs evidence. are grass covered. Their houses generally consist of two rooms, one for the family, and the other for the pig, whose sacredness permits him to sleep in the house. They me sure their wealth by the rice they dwn, the cereal being regarded as a luxury along with their camotes

(sweet potato). The tribe differs somewhat from the "Negritos" in that they are well supplied with cooking utensils, made by themselves of solid copper, wiich is found in large quantities in nearly all parts of the northern provinces. It may also be said, that they have a process of hardening this metal until it is ab ut equal to steel; this process, however, they will not divulge. Nearly all their implements, arrow heads, axes, knive and tools are made of copper. Those living in rancheras are governed by a presidente appointed by the provincial governor, while those inhabiting the mountain regions are ruled by a chief selected by themselves. Very little is known of the latter, as they seldom visit thickly populated districts. THE HEADHUNTERS OF NORTHERN LUZON are perhaps the most ferocious of the wild tribes to be found in that island, They live in the Sierra.

Madre mountains, separating the province of Nueva Ecija from Pangasinan. Villages or settlements are entirely unknown among them. They are a roaming tribe of cannibals, sleeping wherever and whenever overtaken by night, and with never failing precaution to build a high fence around their camp to prevent any contemplated raids by hostile tribes. Travelling in bands of from fifty to two hundred they never sleep twice in the same place, and should they meet small party of strangers the Ibilaos invariab'y make an attack, and if successful in killing their victims, the bloody work is finished by the heads being chopped off with their huge war knives These heads are always carried along and play an important part in their feasts and other ceremonies; hence the reason,

Their thirst for human blood is such that at times they will make a descent upon the smaller towns or yillages along the mountains ranges and kill everyone they meet. During my stay in those parts in March of 1901, no less. than nine natives were slain in cold blood by the savages, and it is greatly on that fact, that the veracity of this part of the story is based. The Ibilaos kill for the sake of making human sacrifices, and unlike the fanatical Mojos of Mindanao or the Jolo group, who kill only Christians, they slaughter people of all creeds, even members of their own tribe, in order to make the offering, which is only in keeping with their ancestral, faratical religion. During the months of January, February and March they must make most offerings, and it is then that they become the boldest and most bloodthirsty. At that time they have attacked the soldiery or constabulary, and although they met with sad defeat, it did not deter them from making an attack upon an adjoining village, where they were more successf l. In their mids, if they cannot kill strangers they murdertheir old or blind men or women and should a woman give birth to twins, the last born is killed and offered as a sacrifice.

Whenever a head is taken, a notch is put on the blade of the bloody war knife that did the work; the more notches, the more brave. Young men cannot court any m iden unless he his taken at least one head, and instead of young women inquiring into a prospective suitor's family relations, they merely ask " How many notches to your credit," and woe be unto the youth whose knife is notchless.

The ears, thumbs and fingers taken from victim serve as ornaments, which are worn around the neck of these mountain belles, as though they were real diamond necklaces or other costly jewels, and a young man cannot please his lady friend better than with a gift of one of these human charms.

During the ceremony of the offering, humas skulls are in evidence everywhere; and at the end of long poles, in the hands of fanatics they madly swing in the air. The last drops of blood dripping from the severed ve'ns of the fresh skulls are caught in cups and drank with their "hasev," an intoxicating drink, which is supposed to appease and drive away the evil one. As the barbarous ceremony proceeds, and the human fiends become intoxicated, then with bloodshot eyes and quivering lips, they thirst for fresh human gore - a ghastly speciacle indeed, but the most important ceremony of the Headhunters, who inhabit the mountainors regions not over sixty miles north-east of Manila. THE BAGABOS OF MINDANAO are also notable on account of the human sacrifices they offer to appease the devil, who, with his wives, is supposed to live in the active volcano of Apo, which is located about fifteen miles west of Daval Bay. The devil's name is Mand rangan, and it is necessary to appease him with human blood, which is his only drink. The Bagabos believing that each person has two souls, one of which gres to he ven, and the other to the infernal regions, feel particularly anxious to please. the arch fiend, and for this purpose they keep slaves, usually captives during raids upon weaker tribes. As there are about seventeen wild tribes in the interior of Mindanao, tribal wars are continuous, resulting with the stronger enslaving the weaker; and as nearly all of will cause the little brown men to pray for days, them offer human sacrifices, murders with the greatest cruelties are regularly perpetrated. been partly broken, and unless they pray for Of all the wild tribes of Mindanan the Manobas are, perhaps, the most ferocious and treacherous. It may be noted that this difference would be very much smaller if the values are taken in sterling, in which case the loss is about £200,000 or, at 2s. 6d., Tis. 1,600,000. It is not known that there has been any diminution whatever in the Company's earning power, and it must be a long time before there can be any serious competition in Shanghai, so that the fall is principally an indication of the tightness of money.
